From the Ladies' Magazine THE FREED BIRD.

My little bird, thou'tt flown
Through the far pathless sky,
And hope is in thy panting heart,
Joy in thy sun-bright eye;
Thou art gone, my bird, and yet
I would not call thee back,
Thou hast known the bliss of free wing,
The joyous sunbeams track;
And thoud'st pine now, for the range
Ofbright sky and pure sir,
Oh I've not the heart to win thee
From the world green and fair.

In leafy trees thou'rt shaded,

In leafy trees thou'rt shaded,
I hear thy song, my bird,
And there is sweetness in its tone,
Ever Vefore unheard.
It is thy song of gladness,
Long prisoned bird, now freed!
Sing om, I chide thee not—for I
Fire, forest life would lead.
Thou art gone, my bird—vet still In the joy of wild life sing,*
The chain that held thee is unwound,
Free is thy glancing wing!

*I believe N. P. Willis says singing is necessary to the existence of birds, and that a dumb bird would die of its impris-

Matrimony-from a newspaper of 1780 .- Matrimony is absolutely necessary, for without a regular system of marriage, the civil government could not be supported; it is also necessary to lay a restraint upon our passions, to sweeten the charms of society, by the dear conjugal ties. There are five things indispensably necessary to make the married pair happy; circumstances above want, mutual good humor, sincerity, a proper filled stock of ribbons. allowance for human frailties, and a firm corfidence in each other. Without these, no married pair can be happy, and where these subsist, the persons are rarely otherwise. One great misfortune amongst married people is, they generally expect more from one another than nature will allow, or reason authorise; each seeing the errors or defects of the other, are blind to their own; whence natural bickerings, jealousies or distates arise. When the united constantly seek to please, and make each other happy, when their mutual endearments are founded on virtue, tenderness and esteem, when they generously allow for each other's errors of judgment and defects of nature, they certainly constitute the happiest state human nature is capable of; 'tis the viciousness and folly of choice, and imprudence of our behaviour that makes the married state unhappy, and not any thing in the state itself. Matrimony to the libertine is like a bad novel; but to the sensible, virtuous man, a hoard of richest sweets; for he remembers when he makes his choice, that personal charms is the least and lightest consideration; he considers if he marries a beauty, without wisdom, and without principle, that his house, when the charm of a new plaything is dissolved, will become a gloomy prison to him. On the other hand, he considers, if he marries a woman of sense and principle, she will every day be improving in his esteem, and increasing his happiness ;-when business calls him abroad, with how much confidence and ease can he entrust his family, and all his concerns, with such a lovely woman. When pining sickness confines him to the bed of anguish, how cheering, to have such a faithful, virtuous mate administer the necessary cordial, while her tenderness to a greater. What I have transcribed on this subject, is not visionary-'tis what I have already experienced.

Adversity .- It is in adversity, as in stormy weather : when the heavens are covered with black clouds, and the rain pours down in torrents, we feel gloomy, not because there is no sun, because we know he shines ent to be injurious, for we experience its happy effects in reviving nature, in the purification of the atmosphere, and in the health of animal economy; but we are oppressed because the cheering sunshine is not palpably felt, because the atmosphere, like a heavy weight, depresses the spirits, and because all nature is arrayed in the veil of physical darkness. When the virtuous are cast down by the storms of providential trial, it is not because there is no God, for they are sure that he reigns in majesty supreme above the water-flood; it is not because they imagine that trials are injurious to them, for they are conscious that they subserve the same purpose in the moral as in the physical world; but they are downcast with grief because they feel not the immediate beams of the sun of consolation; because they are oppressed and enveloped in the mysterious atmosphere of Heaven's providential dealings: so that, like the fugitive prophet, distrustful of his master's abandonment, they wrap their faces in their mantle, till the city. still small voice inspires them with comfort. Adversity may be said to wipe away the ill-compacted principles and hopes of those who live only to themselves and their depraved appetites, as the cataract sweeps down the treasures and labors of man; but it rolls round the virtuous members of the community like the waters of the ocean that rage around the earth, which, the more they beat upon their briny foundation, tend to render it more selid, and thus strengthen the terrestial rampart which it apparently threatens to destroy.

Charity .- If it rejoices us to behold inanimate nature happy with the flowers and fruit she dispenses to man, ought it not to gladden us more to contemplate our fellow creatures-the rational creation-blest with the invaluable gift of natural, intellectual and moral privilege! If, on the other hand, it grieves us to behold nature drooping in uncultivated barreness and desolation, how much more melancholy a contemplation is it to view the great mass of human society suffering under the depressions of unbefriended want, writhing through lack of mental moisture to give to their sinking faculties, and running wild and uncultivated in every species of error, evil habit, and sensual indul-

Contemplation .- I am contemplating. My thoughts are bent inward on myself, as the tulip leaves and flowers are gently contracted and closed up. The less my reflections mingle with the train of external objects, the clearer and the more connected will they become to my understanding, as they whose vision is entirely upraised from earth can discern more accurately than others the luminaries of heaven. It is only intellectual abstraction which can render a professioal man eminent, and it is the want of it that prevents the majority from rising above the shades of mediocrity into the regions of intellectual and moral greatness.

VICTORY! VICTORY!!

Democracy every where Triumphant! GLORIOUS NEWS FROM

New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Georgia!!

The good tidings of DEMOCRATIC VIC-TORIES reach us from every quarter—the spirit of the Democracy is aroused, and is sweeping every thing before it. The PEOPLE in their might and majesty, have boldly come to the rescue, and in their verdict-from which, thank Heaven, there is no appeal-a factious Senate and a rotten Monopoly MAY READ THEIR FATE! Neither the eloquence of the, one nor the GOLD of the other, can corrupt the hearts, or buy the votes, of the honest and independent yeomaniy of the land.

New Jersey. - The "New Jersey Blues" have done nobly. The Bank men had not done bragging, and their salates for a federal victory in Jersey were hardly fired, when the glarious news arrived that the State had gone for democracy by an increased majority !

The following statement of returns are from the sources to which we have access. Opposite each county we place the number of members which it returns to the Legislature, so that every reader may calculate for himself the probability of a democratic Senator being elected this winter, to supply Mr Frelinghuysen's place. Harrisburg, Oct. 15th, 1834.-In our Congressional district, (Dauphin and Lebanon) where the majority against the Jackson ticket two years ago was near 1700, it is now only about 500. In this county we have elected a Jackson man to the Legislature. The majority two years ago, for the opposition, was 700. From two districts of York, which gave anti-Jackson majorities two years ago, there are now Jackson majorities amounting together to 107. The Jackson candidate will unquestionably succeed in that county: The present Representative is Anti-Jackson. In Cumberland, Perry and Juniata counties, the Jackson members will be re-elected, by 800 or 1000, notwithstanding a split in the Jackson party concerning a part of the ticket.

DEATH OF MRS. ST. HENRY. October 18th, died of Consumption, at Brinley Place, Roxbury, MRS. ST. HENRY, Novice in the Ursuline Community, aged 20 years and 6 months. Her health had been delicate for some months, but on the day of the destruction of the Convent, she had been able to give lessons to a class of young ladies. It is beyond a doubt that the riot of Mount Benedict greatly accelerated her death, for she never recovered from the shock. Her funeral will take place This Day, at 4 o'clock, P. M .-She will be buried at South Boston.

She was a most accomplished lady, being a good musician, and speaking, with fluency, several languages. Her mildness of character made her beloved, not only by her friends, but by every one who knew her and her valuable acquirements, as well as her amiable qualifications, cause her to be much regreated by the Community of which she was a member

NOTICE.—The Members of the Boston R. C. C. Relief Society, are requested to meet at the Church of the Holy Cross, this afternoon at 3 o'clock, for the putpose of attending the funeral procession of Mrs. St. Henry, a member of the Ursuline Community. Per order, DENNIS TIMONEY, : ec'y

OTO ORE'S COOKING STOVES.—GOULD & DAON LYIS, in Fiske's New Building, in Cambridge-Port, have on hand and are constantly manufacturing Moore's Patent Cooking Stoves, of the most approved form for convenience and economy, of any now in use.

In offering these Stoves to the public, they think proper to say, that having made and sold, between six and seven hundred within the last two years, they can now declare, upon the fullest testimony of those who have used them, that they combine more advantages, than any others now in use. They are so constructed, that you can boil in three places and bake at the same time. They have a large hearth convenient for roasting; a good oven combining all the advantages of a brick one, and also, of a common bake-kettle; consume but a small quantity of fuel, and are perfectly free from smoking. In addition to their former patterns they have a smaller size, to which in point of economy and convenience, for small families, there are none considered superior. They request those who may be in want of Cooking Stoves to call and examine for themselves.

RODGERS' IMPERIAL STOCKS.
6 Joy's Building, up stairs.
[Opposite the Post Office, Boston.]
WILLIAM H. ROGERS, most respectfully invites the attention of Merchant Tailors and the public generally, to his new invented Imperial Stocks for the Neck, which for ease and elegance very far surpass every thing of the kind hitherto manufactured in this vicinity. They are cut scientifically; the materials and manner of making are quite different from those in common use, and they may be covered many times, and retain exactly the same shape as when first made. W. H. R. requests permission to enumerate the usual faults in the common Stocks, viz. 1st, the very inferior materials used; 2d, their sitting away from the chin and exposing the neck, when disagreeably close at the bottom; 3d, the edge at the top being uncomfortably tight, as to cause a distortion of the features by moving the head; 4th, that of their bulging out at the sides, by moving the head a little downwards, which has a most distasteful appearance. By W. H. Rogers' deservedly admired and extensively patronized invention, all these faults are completely obviated. Naval and military gentlemen will find them the most pleasing and durable. Made to order of any texture, by the dozen or single, at the lowest cash prices. Ladies' Riding Stocks beautifully made to order. Riding Stocks beautifully made to order.

The uniform success which has attended the use of it where it has been extensively used, in Boston and various other parts of the United States, and in the West Indies, attested by disin terested and highly respectable persons, affords, next to a trind of the medicine itself, the best commentary upon its virtues, and the best recommendation which can be offered to those who are unacquainted with it.

Extract of a letter received from a gentleman in Boston, who had suffered severely from indigestion for three years, "During not stant pain in the head and breast, and side, sharp shooting pains over almost the whole system—the food that I ate seemed to pass into my lungs and there remain, giving me great pain attended with a strong degree of heat. At times, I suffered so much from the pain of indigestion as to be confined to the bed for two er three days. During one of these most severe attacks, I was induced by the advice of a friend to try your Vegetable Medicine. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours, completely restores me. It has had with me a very wonderful effect, in strengthening the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours, completely restores me.
